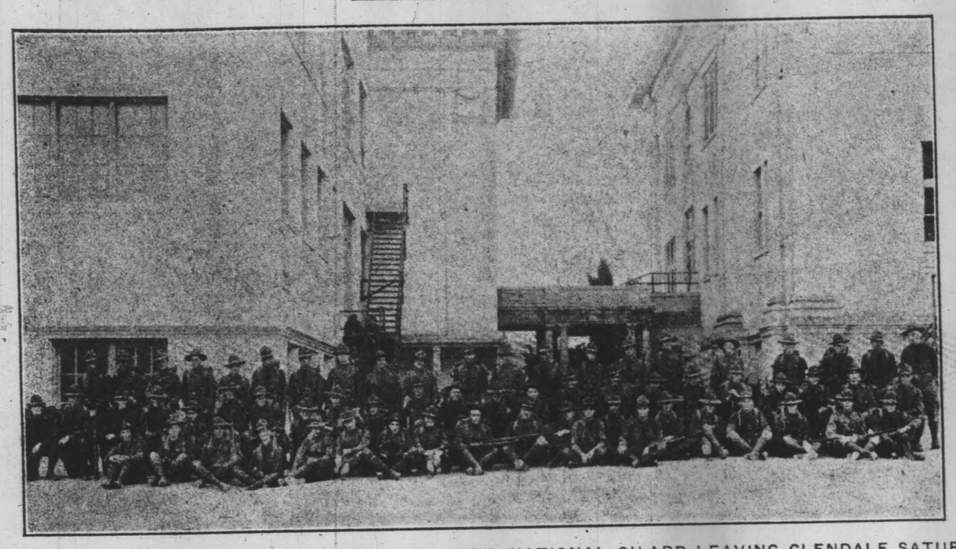
GLENDALE'S OWN, SPICK AND SPAN, OFF FOR YOSEMITE—SHAPE UP LIKE VETERANS



"GLENDALE'S OWN," COMPANY M, 160th INFANTRY, NATIONAL GUARD, LEAVING GLENDALE SATURDAY FOR YOSEMITE.

With the snap and precision of experienced soldiers who have spent months rather than weeks at the military game and carrying themselves like veterans under the burden of full packs, Headquarters Company and Company M of the Glendale National Guard jumped into ranks at the command "fall in," on the High School drill field Saturday afternoon, and marched off to the Glendale station of the Southern Pacific to entrain for Yosemite Park with cheers and goodbyes from relatives and friends who gathered to see them off.

It was an excellent showing that the guard made, spick and span in the new summer uniforms that had been issued a week before. Spirit ran high among the men and enthusiasm was paramount for every one of them elected of his own volition to attend camp and all had been looking forward for days to the big venture and mothers and fathers who gathered to see the guard set off were glad to see their boys in khaki and felt that the encampment should prove a valuable experience.

Captain Watson and Lieutenant Hayhurst, commanding the guard, deserve all credit for the tireless energy they have expended in bringing the organization to the degree of efficiency it has attained in so brief a time. Captain Watson had a world of experience in Brest during the war handling thousands of troops that arrived there daily and Lieutenant Hayhurst has had much experience breaking in and drilling new recruits. The guard is particularly fortunate in having a First Sergeant of the calibre of Douglas who spent a number years in military service and knows the game thoroughly.

The encampment at Yosemite Park, to last two weeks, will bring several thousand National Guardsmen from every part of the State together for "powderless," training which will include field work, drill and instruction with target practice omitted. It is as a result of requests from the Department of the Interior to the War Department that ammunition has been left behind and sham battles will not factor in the training for it was felt that these latter would conflict with national park ordinances.

Members of the local companies of National Guard attending the camp are as follows:

Officers and non commissioned officers: Captain Thomas D. Watson; 1st Lieutenant Normal C. Hayhurst; First Sergeant Douglas; Supply sergeant Oliver; Mess Sargeant Miller; Duty Sergeants Alexander, Wilde, Jackson, Wright and Webb; Corporals Dennison, McMillan, Holland, Stone, Billingsley, Harwood, Bender, Blanchard; Buglers Jones, Nicklin, Kingsley; Assistant Cook Rich.

BIG SAN FERNANDO VALLEY FAIR WILL BE HELD NEXT SEPTEMBER

Preliminary Preparations Are Begun for Glendale's Participation

COMMITTEES ARE BUSY

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson Has General Oversight and Is Working Hard

Preliminary preparations for participation in the San Fernando valley fair, to be held at San Fernando from September 13 to 18, have begun in Glendale under the direction of a group of committees headed by Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, 317 North Brand boulevard, who is general chairman. At a banquet held at San Fernando Saturday night and attended by committee members, some definite lines of procedure, to popularize the fair, were outlined.

The Home and Garden section of Glendale, which will take a prominent part at San Fernando, has been divided into a series of committees to carry on the particular work in hand, according to information given out this morning by Mrs. Richardson.

The various newly appointed committees, with the persons or company heading them, are as follows: Plants and flowers, Glendale Plant and Floral company, 118 South Brand; art, Miss Alice Frank, 1558 East Wilson; antiques, Mrs. Ada Leavitt, 212 South Orange; needle-work, Miss C. H. Taylor, 123 North Everett; culinary, Mrs. Colin Cable, 505 South Columbus; electric appliances for households, Glendale Electric company; child welfare, Mrs. A. A. Barton, 630 North Howard.

Local people who are desirous of furnishing materials for display, or who wish to place articles on sale at the fair, are advised by Mrs. Richardson to get in touch with the person heading the particular committee in which they may be interested.

Other local committees which have been appointed and which are anxious to cooperate with whoever may be interested in the particular department over which they have charge, are: Agriculture, Spencer Robinson, 111 North Glendale avenue; bee culture, F. B. Buchanan, 242 North Orange; citrus culture, L. C. Forrest, Sparr Fruit and Packing company; domestic science and art, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, 246 North Orange; horticulture, H. E. Bartlett, 347 North Brand; industrial, J. H. Thompson, 1029 North Pacific; poultry, Dr. G. I. Royce, Kerckhoffer-Guzner company, Los Angeles.

Elks' Doings Tomorrow

Most of the activity tomorrow will be at Santa Monica and Exposition Park. An elaborate program has been prepared at the beach for the Elks while at Exposition park a barbecue will share interest with exhibitions by the drill teams entered in the competition for prizes. At the Alexandria the Southern California lodges will give a dinner to the Grand Lodge officers and two concerts will complete the day, one at Westlake Park and the other at the Philharmonic. The Grand Lodge will begin its official sessions in the morning.

The drill corps teams will compete at Exposition Park at 12:30 p. m., the program being in charge of M. Ray Coserisan. Nineteen teams from all parts of the United States have entered, including Glendale's team, captained by W. C. Wattles. The prizes offered are $1000, $600 and $400, half cash and half trophies. The other eighteen represent the following cities: San Francisco, Detroit, Philadelphia, Salt Lake City, Jackson, Mich., Toledo, Bakersfield, Seattle, Pasadena, Oakland, Phoenix, Ariz., Madison, Wis., San Antonio, Portland, Ore., Redondo, Sacramento, Point Richmond and San Rafael.

ASSOCIATION FOR RETAIL CREDIT MEN

C. E. Neale Sponsoring Movement in This Direction to Conserve Trade Here

Believing that a retail credit men's association is vitally necessary to business interests in Glendale, the chamber of commerce here is sponsoring a move to encourage retail merchants to unite, and has appointed C. E. Neale of the Neale & Gregg Hardware company, to act as chairman of business men who are actively interested in the move.

During the early part of next week a general meeting will be called to bring merchants of the city together for the purpose of setting forth the advantages enjoyed by members of an association of retail credit men, and preliminary steps will be taken to establish such an association.

H. J. Miller, of Glendale, who is connected with the credit department of Hamburger's store in Los Angeles, is lending his support to the organization of a credit men's association here, believing that Glendale is of sufficient size to warrant such an association. At the same time, he points out that it will be a decided step in the direction of improving business conditions and retaining much trade here that now goes to Los Angeles firms because of the unwillingness of local merchants to extend credit.

The primary object of organizing a credit men's association, according to C. E. Neale, is to protect the interests of business men and to permit them to expand their business through the extension of credit. Such an association operates as a safeguard to every member, since the credit status of every person in a community is retained on file at the offices of the association and given out to merchants who may be interested in extending credit to any particular person.

Business men of the city who have had experience as members of credit associations elsewhere are urging the establishment of such an organization here. It is probable that a tentative association will be formed within the next few weeks.

GREAT PROGRAM FOR ELKS TODAY AT VARIOUS POINTS

Barbecue, Aquatic Sports, Concerts and Bathing Suit Parade at Redondo—Opening Ceremonies This Evening at Philharmonic Auditorium, Los Angeles

Today's entertainment of the Elks will find them guests of Redondo, where a barbecue, aquatic sports, concerts, dancing, fireworks and a bathing suit parade of more than 100 girls, will furnish the headliners on the program. All beach concessions will be thrown open to delegates.

Glendale Elks will cooperate with the Redondo lodge in making the reception accorded by that city to visitors a cordial one. The local Elk band of 39 pieces will furnish music at various intervals throughout the day, while Glendale's crack drill team will have the honor of serving in the capacity of escort to the bathing girls' parade.

Street cars and automobiles bound for Redondo were packed to capacity this morning, and it is probable that several thousands of delegates will avail themselves of the Redondo invitation.

Opening ceremonies of the reunion will begin tonight at the Philharmonic auditorium, when the Elks of Los Angeles will formally welcome visiting brothers. Addresses of welcome will be made by Governor William D. Stephens, Mayor George E. Cryer, and Norman A. Baillie, exalted ruler of Lodge No. 99. A response will be made by Grand Exalted Ruler William M. Abbott.

A memorial honoring the thousand or more Elks who gave their lives in the world war will in all probability be erected in Chicago, it was revealed yesterday, when the committee appointed to select a site announced they would recommend to the convention that Chicago be selected. It was only after an exhaustive investigation as to the feasibility of building the monument in ten or twelve representative cities throughout the country that Chicago was determined upon. Records of various lodges show that approximately 70,000 Elks were in military service during the war.

A letter from President Harding, who is an Elk, was received this morning by William M. Abbott, grand exalted ruler, and will be read at the session of the grand lodge tomorrow night. The letter of greeting sent by President Harding is as follows:

"The White House, Washington.

"My Dear Brother Abbott: I am exceedingly sorry that I am not able to be in attendance at the meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, to be held in Los Angeles. It would be immensely pleasing to me if I could be with my brother members. In my absence I would like you to express my very cordial greetings to the brethren. I feel especially anxious to have you do so because you were good enough, in your official position, to express to me congratulations of the order over my election to the Presidency. I always feel myself very much interested in the good fortunes of the order because I know from actual association the highly patriotic character of all the work of the Elks, and know full well of its supreme contribution to the cause of the republic during the period of the World War. I need not add that I have an especially warm personal regard for you and wish you the best of everything in your official work for the great order of which you are the supreme head.

"Very truly yours,

"WARREN G. HARDING."

C. OF C. DIRECTORATE GIVES DINNER FOR CITY COUNCIL

The banquet at which directors of the chamber of commerce are entertaining members of the new city council, is to be quite an important function, designed to promote teamwork between the two organizations and develop cooperation along all lines which will boost Glendale and advance her welfare.

The guests of honor will, of course, be Mayor Spencer Robinson and his associates—Councilmen Sam Davis, Clarence E. Kimlin, Dwight W. Stephenson and A. H. Lapham. Covers will also be laid for the newly appointed ladies' advisory board, which will have charge of chamber matters in which women are especially interested, viz., Mrs. Ella Richardson, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Mrs. Mabel Tight, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, Mrs. Margaret R. Biggs, and Dr. Caroline Payne Jackman.

The hosts will be: President C. C. Cooper, Secretary Jas. A. Rhoades, and Directors G. H. Bentley, Daniel Campbell, Owen Emery, Peter L. Ferry, D. L. Gregg, H. V. Hollister, J. G. Huntley, C. D. Lusby, J. A. Newton, S. C. Packer, and Jesse Smith.

Any member of the chamber who desires to attend the dinner will be welcome, but he or she must make reservations with Secretary Rhoades at the chamber offices tonight, or tomorrow morning, the price being $1 a plate.

The dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m., and preceding it, at 5 p. m., the directorate of the chamber has been invited to make a tour of inspection of the big new reservoir on North Glendale avenue, in company with the city council.

MRS. CHARLES RUDEL IS ENTERTAINING HER BROTHER

Edward M. Cody, of the firm of Joseph Cody & Sons, Peoria, Ill., is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. A. Rudel, of 315 West Vine street. He came on the Elks' special, and had a wonderful trip, stopping on the way out at the Grand canyon and taking in all the other treats provided for delegates to the great convention. He plans to be here two weeks and to return by way of the Canadian Rockies.

It is his first visit to Southern California and his sister plans to utilize all the time he can spare from the Elks' program in showing him the sights in this part of the country.

He says prohibition has not worked out for the farmers of Illinois as it has for the vineyardists of California. The big distilleries of Peoria are all closed down and corn, which is the big staple crop in that section, is a drug on the market. He himself is a teetotaler and merely mentioned the matter as one of the adjustments that must be made to new conditions.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR MISS MOTTERN

Miss Elizabeth Rudy Mottern has received word that she has been enrolled as a voice pupil of Percy Rector Stevens, the well-known teacher of New York city. With her teacher of voice in the college of music, U. S. C., Miss Lillian Backstrand, she will study under Mr. Stevens. They are planning to leave for New York about September 1.

Miss Mottern is overjoyed over this opportunity to study under one who is so well-known and has such a national reputation.

She is also delighted over the opportunity and the pleasure it will give her, of singing two groups of Charles Wakefield Cadman's songs, with the composer himself at the piano, at the program given by the Junior Music club of Glendale, tomorrow evening, at the home of Miss Veda Knapp, 214 West Chestnut street.

DINNER PARTY FOR GRACE A. JACKSON

Little Grace Anna Jackson, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson, and who is but just recovered from a critical illness, is 11 years old today. Her birthday is always a red letter day in the Jackson home, and it will be celebrated with a small dinner party at which three or four of her friends will be entertained and afterwards make part of a theater party to one of the local movie shows. The table will be beautifully decorated with flowers by her doting father, who is past master at that sort of artistic work, and there will be favors and place cards and a menu worthy of the occasion.

Because of her recent illness, Mrs. Jackson does not consider it wise to subject her little daughter to the excitement of a big party, hence this quiet substitute.

GLENDALE ELKS AID IN GREETING THE GRAND LODGE DELEGATES

Brilliant in its festive colors of purple and white, Los Angeles is today prepared to extend the heartiest of greetings to thousands of Elks who have gathered there in reunion, ready to enjoy to the full the hospitality that the city plans to offer them. Sidewalks of the business streets this morning were thronged with visiting "Hello Bills" and a steady stream of them passed through the Pacific Electric building lobby, where the Elks' registration headquarters is located.

Glendale Elks plan to unite in all the celebrations of the week and with this in view, have cancelled the regular lodge meeting tonight so that the members may avail themselves of the formal welcome to be extended tonight to visiting delegates at the Philharmonic auditorium.

The local lodge this morning opened its Los Angeles headquarters at 605 South Grand avenue, under the direction of John Roman, where packages of assorted California fruits will be given out to visiting Elks and their families.

PROFITEERING MUST STOP

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Profiteering by middlemen, speculative gambling, arbitrary restriction of credit by the Federal Reserve Board, exorbitant railroad rates and the breakdown of foreign markets are responsible for agricultural and industrial depression in the United States, Colonel Smith W. Brookheart of Iowa, representing the National Farmers' Union, declared today when the special joint congressional commission opened its probe of agricultural conditions. Cooperative distribution, prohibition of gambling, freer credits and taxation of war profits were urged as remedies by Brookheart.

ATHENS, July 11.—It was reported from Smyrna today that Mustapha Kemel Pasha, head of the Turkish Nationalist government at Anatolia, has been proclaimed "president of the republic of Kurdistan."

NORTHERN FRIENDS ADMIRE GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Putzker of San Francisco and J. X. Branstetter of Santa Rosa, have just returned to their homes after a two weeks' visit with their sister, Mrs. J. W. Harris of 131 South Jackson street. While here they visited all the beaches and made trips to San Diego and Catalina.

They were very much impressed with the attractions of our city. Mr. Putzker is in the office of the Associated Oil company of San Francisco. Mr. Branstetter is a traveling salesman for the Globe Grain and Milling company, north of the bay section. The party made the trip by auto.

DARLINGS' GUESTS TELL OF FLOOD LOSS

Mrs. Jennie L. Darling and Miss Guila Darling, 108 South Everett street, will have as their summer guests Mrs. H. A. Hill and her little daughter, Yvonne, who arrived here this morning from Colorado Springs. Mrs. Hill is the daughter of Mrs. Darling and wife of H. A. Hill, chief dispatcher of the Colorado division of the Rock Island railway.

Mrs. Hill, who has never visited Glendale before, although she has made several trips to the coast, expresses herself as delighted with the prospects of a six weeks' vacation here. She said that there was a considerable depression in the summer tourist influx throughout Colorado as a result of the recent floods.

Discussing the Pueblo disaster, she pointed out that publicity in regard to the flood devastation had been curtailed in newspaper reports and that conditions were really much worse than was supposed. Survivors in Pueblo, she said, placed the number of deaths as high as 5000. Every effort is being made to bring the districts that were effected by the floods back to normal again.

FUNCTIONS AT HOME OF DR. AND MRS. A. L. BRYANT

Dr. and Mrs. Bryant, 1635 South San Fernando road, entertained Friday with a social evening in honor of Mrs. J. L. Micheau and Thomas McAvoy, of Houston, Tex. (who know Rev. Willisford and wife who went from here to that city), Mr. Claussenius, Miss Edith Micheau, of Hollywood, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackburn of Los Angeles, Miss Mary Blackburn of Lincoln, Neb. The Micheau family is here for the summer and has taken a cottage at Hermosa Beach.

Saturday evening, Dr. and Mrs. Bryant gave a family dinner in honor of of the 70th birthday of Mrs. Henry Johnson, aunt of the hostess, who was the recipient of letters of congratulation from five states and of many pretty gifts. The table was centered with lavender and white china asters. A more elaborate festival had been planned, but was abandoned when Mr. Johnson was called east by the illness of a brother.

IRISH REPLY TO PEACE MESSAGE

LONDON, July 11.—The reply of Eamonn de Valera, president of the Irish republic, to Lloyd George's message regarding a conference in London this week was received at Downing street this morning. It was stated that de Valera's message was satisfactory, but the text was withheld until the premier spoke in Commons. The premier, in his message to de Valera, had said he "would be happy to receive the Republican leader and his colleagues any day this week."

ARMISTICE IN IRELAND SIGNED

DUBLIN, July 11.—The armistice between the Irish Sinn Feiners and the British is now in official effect in Ireland. The attention of Ireland is turned from military matters to the proposed paece conference. Eamonn de Valera, "president of the Irish republic," has received a telegram from Premier Lloyd George saying: "I have received your letter of acceptance and shall be happy to see you and any colleagues you may wish to bring with you to Downing street any day this week." It is believed that de Valera will be accompanied by Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein, and two Unionists, Sir Maurice Dockrell and Sir Robert Woods. Richard Mulcahey, so-called chief of the general staff of the Irish Republican army, said he would not go to London.

VALERA WILL GO TO LONDON

LONDON, July 11. — Eamonn de Valera, "president of the Irish republic," will come to London on Thursday for a conference with Premier Lloyd George on Irish peace, it was announced officially this afternoon.

SIGN MAN "SIGNS" WITH LIFE PARTNER

E. R. Baker, the sign man of 312 E. Broadway, gave the "high sign" to old matrimony recently and thereby sprang a surprise on his many friends and those of his wife "as now is," Mrs. Ethel Dorr "as was." They were married in Santa Barbara. Mrs. Baker is now visiting relatives in the East.

DOMINANT CLUB IS ENTERTAINED BY MRS. SHANK

"The Dominant Club," composed of 75 actively professional women musicians of Southern California, had its final meeting and election of officers Saturday at the home of Mrs. Catherine Shank, 433 Riverdale drive, who has been president for the past year.

It was a purely business and social meeting. After the election, which placed in office Mrs. Bertha Winslow as president, and Mrs. Robinson as vice-president, an elaborate luncheon, prepared by Los Angeles caterers, was served about 4:30. In their vesture of flowers and dainty appointments, the tables were charming and this, perhaps, as well as the spirit of good-fellowship and professional comradeship, inspired the diners for the after-dinner speeches, which were exceedingly witty and clever. Mrs. Shank makes a point of entertaining the club once a year, and it is always a red-letter day.

A Mystery.

The last time you were in the Jewel Electric Co. of 200 E. Broadway did you notice that most attractive "desk?" So did I—and as I was dying of curiosity to know just what place such an exquisite piece of furniture might occupy in an electric shop, I made inquiries—and what do you suppose I found it to be?—No you'll never in this world guess—so I'll have to tell you—a Westinghouse Electric Sewing Machine! Yes, actually! And a wonderful machine too—just open the top like any other machine and it's ready to make anything for you—and it does all of the fancy "tricks" too! Then when the cabinet in the front is opened—there are the drawers for thread and the numerous other uses to which sewing machine drawers are put. Truly, this is a most useful and attractive article in any home. Then, if you've not settled there's another Westinghouse—practically the same thing except for the difference in the cabinet—the latter being a portable machine and made with a case for carrying. Either of these models you'll find most satisfactory and I know that once you've seen them at the Jewel Electric Co. you'll be simply filled with the desire to sew and make all sorts of pretty things.

Every Day May be Saturday!

As plumbing is the most important feature of a house, in so far as health is concerned the bathroom is the heart of the plumbing problem. Therefore one should employ a capable plumber who supplements good workmanship with the best of materials. To make the bathroom attractive and serviceable, so that bathing shall be enjoyable as well as healthful, Mr. Sheehy of the Glendale Plumbing Co., 134 S. Orange street, is just the person to properly equip it, so that it will ever be ready for service. To be able to secure hot water promptly without agitating the whole household, at any reasonable hour of the day or week, is one of the modern necessities of housekeeping, for it is an established fact that no family ever went bankrupt on account of the cost of hot water for bathing, though it is true that Mr. Sheehy tells the story of one of his customers, who being so delighted with the furnishing of her new bathroom, explained in a glow of enthusiasm "Why it's so nice that we can scarcely wait until Saturday night to take a bath!" Although it was Mr. Sheehy of the Glendale Plumbing Co. who designed and installed one of the largest heating systems in the Western part of Canada, there is no problem too small for him to treat with his unending courtesy and expert attention. It makes no difference whether it is just the replacing of one unit of your plumbing system, or the plans for an entire new home, Mr. Sheehy will accomplish both with his usual care and grace.

Brand blvd. have been appointed the exclusive agents for walkover shoes in Glendale. They have a large selection of new models now.

A Word to the Wise!

Now "fess up!" Does your bread always do just what you expected it was going to do, while it was still dough and just in the pan?—No, very few people can make the real old-fashioned "home-made" bread—the kind you could just eat and eat and EAT! But—I've found a place where you can buy the real thing: The Fancy Bakery of N. Brand blvd. are popular for their Home-Made Bread—made in Glendale—too! They pride themselves on the fact that their bread is absolutely pure—made from the most wholesome and healthful materials and handled in the most sanitary way! The Home-Made bread is made of Pillsbury's Flour, Crisco, pure milk, buttermilk, and with cane sugar! And it's made by experts—people who know thoroughly just what they're doing. There is nothing better to feed children between meals—when they just want to "piece," than the good wholesome Home-Made Bread from the Fancy Bakery spread thickly with pure dairy butter. Then watch them grow fat.

Mr. O'Neill is a "dandy good shoemaker," who guarantees satisfaction.

It's really so easy to make your old car look like new by using a can of Pratt & Lambert's Effecto Auto Enamel. Effecto doesn't require the service of an expert automobile painter or one who has some special talent for painting—but may be applied by anyone. The formula is simple—get a can of Effecto Auto Enamel at the Glendale Paint and Paper Co. of 119 S. Brand blvd. then roll up your sleeves and go to work putting it on! When your car has been finished with a good enamel, you'll most certainly want to keep it right up to the mark, and the best way is to sponge it with cold water—and dry it with a chamois. At the Glendale Paint and Paper Co., too, you'll find a variety of good sponges and chamois. It's a pleasure to drive a car and take your friends out—when it's new looking and doesn't show the effects of too many combats with the elements, isn't it? And you'll surely be satisfied with the good appearance of your car after treating it with Pratt & Lambert's Effecto Auto Enamels.

GOVERNMENT STOPS "DRY" INFLUENCE

By W. H. Atkins,
(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A peculiar form of intimidation, which has caused existing laws to be made the plaything of propagandists, has been stopped with a jolt. Dry leaders of every shade, who have been getting away with a lot of things that don't jibe with unbiased administration of justice, have awakened with a feeling in the head that now convinces them that the political wheel has brought a new day and a new way of doing things.

This does not necessarily imply that the new administration is less dry than the old, or that it is in any sense less alive to the emergency which confronts the country in enforcing the laws as they stand on the statute books.

But the pernicious activity of certain dry enthusiasts, who have monopolized the time and attention of certain officials of the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice, and invoked their power almost at will in making the Volstead law a vehicle to impose bothersome and unjust rules upon certain classes or citizens has been halted.

The un-advertised control and domination of the "drys" over the prohibition unit has become something of a scandal among those of sedate officialdom, who frown upon the employment of outside "influence" in shaping official acts, which affect all the people rather than some small part of it.

Drys who have had a habit of actually writing regulations for Treasury officials to sign, as written, have passed along with another regime. They are not found around the inner precincts of the dry law chiefs initiating or suggesting what shall be done, all the while with some consciousness that the overzealous dry leaders will be carried out in toto.

The welcome sign still hangs on the doors of Treasury officials. But not for the type, either wet or dry, who would try to "put over" anything that is not fully warranted by law, or as the intent of Congress has it, may be interpreted by the duly-constituted legal advisers of members of the Cabinet. And for that there is much to be thankful. Little is known outside of Washington of the baneful influence described.

When they charge seven cents for that kind of a cigar, you can't help wondering why the bands are so expensive.

THEATRES

Palace Grand

That Norma Talmadge is the finest emotional actress on the American screen today is clearly demonstrated by her latest starring vehicle, "The Passion Flower," by Jacinto Benavente, Spain's greatest living dramatist which will be shown at the Palace Grand theater tonight.

As the entrancing and temperamental "Acacia" of this absorbing and colorful story of Castilian peasant life, the beautiful Norma is most alluring and rises to great dramatic heights. It is a true histrionic achievement for this scintillating star.

On the stage, Nance O'Neil took the part of "Raimunda," the mother, while in the screen version Miss Talmadge, as "Acacia," has created a most fascinating role as the daughter. The star is ably supported by two leading men, with Courtney Foote playing the part of Esteban, the step-father, and Harrison Ford as Norbert, the poet.

Herbert Brenon directed "The Passion Flower," which is an Associated First National release.

Glendale Theatre

In Mary Pickford's new photoplay, "Through the Back Door," the public will have a chance to see Mary Pickford as a baby and Mary Pickford as a young lady.

As the story opens, Mary Pickford is discovered in the part of a little child, four years of age. This role is played by a little golden-haired girl by the name of Jeanne Carpenter, whose resemblance to "America's Sweetheart" is so striking that it even startled Mrs. Pickford.

Just to show how marked the resemblance was, Mrs. Pickford brought to the studio one of her famous daughter's pictures, and when it was mixed in with several of little Jeanne Carpenter's pictures the only way it could be distinguished was by the difference in the quality of paper the pictures were printed on.

Along with "Through the Back Door," Manager Howe will offer tonight, "Roman Romeos," featuring Lyons and Moran. This picture furnishes a wonderful vehicle for the side-splitting humor of Lyons and Moran, stellar screen comedians.

"THE CHRISTIAN SABBATH'S ORIGIN"

Pastor E. L. Neff of Seventh Day Adventist Church Preaches on Above

Among the questions agitating the minds of Christian men and women today is that of the Sabbath. The question is not so much how but when the Sabbath observance should be rendered. There are some, who are even religiously disposed, who strongly declare that we do not have any Sabbath, rest day, at this time. Others contend that the Sabbath of the New Testament is not the same as that of creation. Where lies the truth? It is not a question of great human names and authorities, but a question that must be settled as all religious questions must be, by the Bible, the inspired word of the Creator.

When we read the words of the beloved John, "I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day (Rev. 1:10), we must decide at once that the Lord has a day at this time, a day that He claims as His, for the book of Revelations was written near the close of the first century of the Christian era, and the apostle recognized the fact that the Lord had a day, and he called it the "Lord's day."

Being true then that the Lord has a day we would naturally ask the question, which day is it? There must be a day that the Lord claims as His in a very special way, for the apostle so recognized it. In Mark 2:28, we read the words of the Lord, "Therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the Sabbath." The Sabbath then must be the Lord's day, for it is the only one in all the Bible that He ever claimed to be Lord of in this special way. In Ex. 20:10, we are told that the "seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God." Therefore the seventh day, or Sabbath is the Lord's day for it is the one that the Master said He was Lord of.

He has a perfect right to claim the Sabbath as His day and declare that He is Lord of it. It is His right because of the fact that it was He who made the Sabbath. In Mark 2:27 we read that the "Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." The scripture plainly plainly teaches that Christ was the creator of all things, "for by Him (Christ) were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers; all things were created by Him and for Him; He is before all things and by Him all things consist." Col. 1:16, 17. We read again that, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God .. .. .. All things were made by Him (the Word); and without Him was not anything made that was made." John 1:1-3. Then the fourteenth verse states that this "Word was made flesh and dwelt among us" so that we know this Word was Christ and is the one that made all things.

Seeing that Christ made all things, and that the Sabbath was made, we ask when and how was it made. Was it at Sinai, or at the time of the giving of the manna, or at creation? The inspired record tells us, "thus the heavens and the earth were finished and all the hosts of them. And on the seventh day God ended His work which He had made. And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it; because that in it He had rested from all His work which God created and made." Gen. 2:1-3. It must be clear then that the Sabbath was made at the close of the first week of time. For on the seventh day God rested. Sabbath means rest. It must henceforth be God's rest day. The steps that were taken in making the Sabbath are here noted also. First He rested, making it His rest day, then He blessed it and it became His blessed rest day; He then sanctified it, or set it apart, or appointed it to a sacred and holy use.

The Sabbath command says, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work .. .. .. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it." Ex. 20:8-11. It is worthy of notice that the very commandment, the giving of which is sometimes said to be the beginning of the Sabbath, makes plain in itself, the fact that the Sabbath was not a new institution, but that it had been given when "the Lord made heaven and earth." It does not inaugurate a new institution; but bids all "remember" an institution already established.

When Christ was here on earth He honored the Sabbath, for "as His custom was He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day and stood up for to read," Luke 4:16. Then at the time of the crucifixion and resurrection, the day before the first day of the week was the Sabbath, see Mark 16: 1-2; Luke 23:54—24:1. We also find that Paul as "his manner was" regarded the Sabbath, Acts 17:2. His preaching was not to Jews only, but also to Gentiles, for "when the Jews had gone out of the synagogue, the Gentiles besought that these words might be preached to them the next Sabbath." Acts 13:42. If there had been a change in the Sabbath, or Lord's day, this would have been a most excellent time for Paul to have cleared up the matter and explained to those Gentiles it was no longer the Sabbath, or rest day; but not so, for "the next Sabbath day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God." Nowhere in all the writings of the Apostles do we find that the day of rest was to be changed from the seventh to that of another day. From Genesis to Revelation it is the same Sabbath or Lord's day.

Christ's attitude toward the law, of which the Sabbath command is a part, is of interest here. He says, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets; I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill. For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, until all be fulfilled." Divine wisdom anticipated the time when man would arise and say that Christ's teaching was antagonistic to the law of God. Hence He would leave no reason for such thought as this. The law and the prophets would endure, every prediction of the prophets in the past would be fulfilled. But all which has been predicted by the prophets, will never be fulfilled, or filled up, completed, or carried into effect, until we reach that eternal world, for they predict that sinless happy eternity. Certainly any change in the Sabbath command would effect more than a "jot" or "tittle." David declares that "the law of the Lord is perfect." Psa. 19:7. Any change in anything that is perfect would make it imperfect.

We well know that the ceremonial law, regulating the Jewish services, their feast days, yearly sabbaths, and other special days did cease at the cross, (Col. 2:14-17). But not so with the moral law or ten commandments, which regulate our relations to our God and also our fellow man. Referring to the scriptures concerning these feast days, we find they had a number of them, but we are also told that these were "besides the sabbaths of the Lord." Lev. 23: 24, 32, 36-38. We find also, that the law which says, "do not commit adultery" and "do not kill" which is the ten commandment law, is to be the standard in the judgment, and will not cease, therefore until that time at least.

There is an idea, with some, that if by the help of the Lord one keeps the commandments, he is under a yoke of bondage rather than the one who keeps it? David declares, "I will walk at liberty, for I seek thy precepts." So obedience to the commands of God does not bring bondage but liberty.

The Sabbath, the seventh day, has survived the wreck of nations, the storms of ages. It was consecrated by the rest and blessing of its author. It cheers us with the promise of glorious rest by and by when weary toil shall be over, when the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord, and God shall dwell with His people and they shall "see the king in His beauty" and from one Sabbath to another come to worship Him. Isa. 66: 23.

Toot! Toot!

A sufferer who lives close to a railroad yard in the suburbs wrote the following to the railroad company complaining about the racket made by a switching engine:

"Gentlemen: Why is it that your switch engine has to ding and dong and fizz and spit and bang and hiss and pant and grate and grind and puff and bump and chug and hoot and toot and whistle and wheeze and jar and jerk and howl and snarl and puff and growl and thump and boom and clash and jolt and screech and snort and snarl and slam and throb and roar and rattle and yell and smoke and shriek like hell all night long?"

You can say one thing for wild oats. Wild as they are, they always come home to roost.

HONOR THE FLAG

The Glendale Daily Press struck a responsive chord in its offer of a beautiful bunting flag with each yearly subscription paid in advance. All we could procure at that time were speedily taken and many applied for the flags after the supply had been exhausted. To satisfy these demands we have ordered a new supply, and these will be given on the same terms as were the first. The Daily Press is not doing this as a money-making proposition, for the flags are quite costly and the paper is worth every cent asked for it, but we desire to do our bit toward stimulating patriotism and reverence for the flag. We hope to eventually see "Old Glory" displayed in every Glendale home, and we want to do our part toward bringing this about.

Fill out the coupon below and bring it or mail it to the office. accompanied with $5 for a year's advance subscription, and a flag will be laid away for you. If in arrears, pay to date and a year in advance to get the flag.

Connecticut Abolishes Bigamous Marriages By Making Stricter Laws

(Written by MARGERY REX for the International News Service.)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 11.—The Nutmeg State will no longer provide the spice of life—especially the life matrimonial—that variety is supposed to lend.

Connecticut has abolished the bigamous marriage which its statutes have heretofore declared to be no bigamy unless the contracting parties live together in the State.

Governor Lake has signed a bill amending the marriage and bigamy laws in his State, where so many dissatisfied husbands fled to take another partner, leaving their perfectly good wives at home.

Mrs. J. Merritt Lane No 2
Adelaide Gouin
Mrs H T Andrews No 2
J. Merritt Lane
Mrs H T Andrews No 1
Herbert T Andrews
Shubel K Siver

Little was known of this legal loophole for marital monotony until Vice-Chancellor Joseph Merritt Lane, of New Jersey took advantage of it—in September 1919—to have two wives and yet escape imprisonment.

Since that time we have had the cases of the broker, Herbert Thornton Andrews, of Jersey City, and the eloping church treasurer, Shubel K. Silver, of New Brunswick.

Of all these Andrews was bravest. He not only ran away from his first wife to marry a younger and more comely woman, but he brought the second wife, Esther Tatnall Andrews, back home to dwell in peace and unity with his first choice, Mrs. Maud Andrews.

Not until the neighbors began to take notice and complain about the plural matrimony of Andrews was any action taken.

After the publicity and criticism that followed wife No. 2 fled, Mrs. Maud Andrews held the citadel, and it was reported that a reconcilation had taken place.

But soon came the news that Esther and Herbert could never be parted and that after a divorce was procured they would marry again.

Alas for such plans! Andrews was threatened with arrest, not only for bigamy, but also on perjury charges. Andrews, of course, in applying in Connecticut for a license had said he was single at the time.

And all the while Mrs. Maud Andrews declared she tolerated conditions while wife No. 2 lived under her roof only for the sake of her children.

Merrit Lane had no such fears of a bigamy charge. He cannot even be charged with perjury for his bigamy charge. He canot ever be charged with perjury for his bigamous marriage, because the facts in the case were sworn to by Grace Hercht, whom he married in this fashion, and not by him.

And when Grace Hercht swore he was single she believed it to be the truth, so she has said since.

Mrs. Hercht-Lane also swore that they never lived together in Connecticut or anywhere else after the marriage. But Prosecuting Attorney Kenealy, of Stamford, now a State Senator, was ready to draw up a bill amending the bigamy statute so as to make marriage of already married persons bigamy whether the contracting parties lived together afterward or not.

Meanwhile the chance for another try at marital happiness was not lost upon such anxious observers as Shubel K. Siver, church treasurer, of New Brunswick, N. J., and Adelaide Gouin, waitress, of Perth Amboy. Silver had a wife and several children. He is over forty. But he was strongly attracted to the young waitress, a girl of seventeen.

Funds are necessary even for bigamous marriages. Siver had little money of his own. But for the sake of the waitress he left home and family and robbed the cashbox of his church to the sum of $6,000 in Liberty Bonds.

With the Liberty Bonds in his pocket, Adele at his side, both bound together in bigamy, they sought freedom and happiness in the Maine woods.

Farce System at End.

Investigators caught up with them, however, and brought Siver and his bigamous bride back to civilization and court.

Siver is now in prison for an indeterminate sentence of from two to seven years. His wife has sued for divorce, naming No. 2 as co-respondent.

Lane is free, but is no longer Vice-Chancellor of New Jersey and has suffered, undoubtedly from the exposure of his private life.

Andrews is still at large, since the authorities in Connecticut thought it might be foolish to prosecute him under the prevailing statutes. And Mrs. Andrews No. 1 has threatened to divorce him.

How many more men or women have taken their troubles to Connecticut for solution is not known. Other cases may crop up later on. Many such marriages may have been effected which may not become known for a long time.

But now the loophole is closed, with the State's action in amending her laws. The bill signed includes the words, "Who shall live together" in the portion of the statute which bears upon residents of other States who married in Connecticut.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep their locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN SUNDAY SERVICES

Rev. C. A. Cole Delivers Two Strong Sermons on Subjects Vital to God

Sunday's attendance at Central Christian Church was almost up to normal, despite the fact that many members of the congregation are away on vacations. There were 211 in Bible School, against 126 a year ago.

The morning sermon was on the topic, "Seeing Ourselves" not "as others us," but as we really are. Three hindrances to our thus seeing ourselves were stated by the speaker to be our busy, strenuous life; the light view we take of sin these days and the gradual and silent growth of sin. We are so busy with the concerns of our everyday life, said the speaker that we do not give time enough to the things of the spirit and thus our dependence on God is gradually weakened, then probably lost entirely, and we are allowing the world to wean us from the better life because we hold sin more and more lightly as we become used to the desecration of the Lord's day, the staying away from divine service and the pursuit of pleasure. Satan leads us on gradually in this respect. Only eternal vigilance can keep God's children true to his precepts and it is only as they see themselves as they really are that they can realize their shortcomings.

The topic for the evening sermon was "The Fine Art of Getting on." It took many centuries, said the speaker for man to get on with nature, to utilize her vast resources for his own gain and to dissipate the fears her wonders produced in him. The awesome lightning is now his servant, the treacherous seas his highways, and animal life is subject to him. Paul 'got on,' with people because he entered into their lives and always extended the helping hand in time of need. The story of his shipwreck on the island of Melita, in which he not only brought safety to all on board the doomed ship, but afterward lent his aid in picking up sticks to replenish the fire the natives had built to warm them, was narrated by the speaker. "Paul was debtor to both Greeks and barbarians, to bond and free and he paid this debt by giving aid to all in distress. So we can "get on" with the world when we learn to be companionable and helpful every day of our lives.

Fright Kills Woman

CRETE, Neb., July 11.—Mrs. Joe Smejkal died here one day recently at 2 o'clock as the result of complications resulting from a severe fright after her two-and-a-half-year-old daughter swallowed a button.

Mrs. Smejkal was a young woman and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burkey, who moved to California from here several years ago. She is survived by her husband and two children.

The girl who swallowed the button is out of danger.

When the parents are broken and old, the children don't go into court to fight for the custody of them.

Your pockets are equally empty, whether the man hands you a railroad ticket or a pawn ticket.

Proud of Our Circulation

In just a few short months the Glendale Press has attained the largest sworn circulation 2050 paid subscribers, ever held by any newspaper in this city, and is advancing rapidly every day.

Even summer vacationists do not affect its rapid strides. Probably we would not lay so much stress on our circulation were it not for the fact that a regular campaign of lies is in progress.

Upon request, the following gentlemen have examined our books and report as follows:

"We, the undersigned, have examined the subscription records of the Glendale Daily Press, and find that the total number of paid subscribers is in excess of 2050 daily and 2400 on Friday, as stated in affidavit of circulation manager.

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

My Bread-Crumb Economies

Household tasks, I have discovered, barring the heavy work like washing and scrubbing, fall into two well-marked classes—in one, sweeping, dusting, dishwashing, setting the table, cleaning silver, making beds, mending and plain sewing—tasks which take time and a certain manual dexterity; in the other, the selection and preparation of the family food, the marketing, the daily adjustment of the viands to the scale of living of the family as well as to the tastes of its several members. This takes brains and knowledge.

Here, then, is a most peculiar situation. An educated woman becomes mistress of a modest home where she hires one maid and does part of her work herself. She dusts the parlor and makes the beds. She leaves the cooking to a slatternly girl. The best pair of brains under the ridge-pole wastes itself on work which needs no brains at all.

If the house mistress has a baby she will take charge of its food herself, prepare its meals and wash out its bottles. The diet of a baby is too important to be left to less competent hands. But the nutrition of the baby's father, on whose efficiency hangs the welfare of the household, is turned over to any sort of casual, unskilled labor.

My point then is this: We of the middle class, who, in the nature of things, will ourselves do part of the work of our households, ought flatly to break with the tradition that assigns to us the unessential beds and buttons in place of the all-important food. The work which bores us by its simplicity can be done equally well by the hirelings who are floundering about amid tasks quite beyond their capacity. Let the mistress see to the larder and the table, and let the maid darn the stockings, dust the parlor and make the beds.

But, it will be objected, cooking is dirty, hot, disagreeable, smelly and generally unpleasant work; we choose the less interesting work because it is the more ladylike. To this there are two answers: First, cooking is neither so dirty nor so disagreeable as nursing the sick or tending babies, and not so smelly as teaching chemistry; second, cooking is dirty and disagreeable in no small part because our houses and their equipment are planned on the assumption that the cooking is to be done by a dirty disagreeable person.

No cooking teacher, no class in domestic science, finds cooking either dirty or unpleasant; the supposition is that teacher and class are ladies; therefore they have the tools of a lady as well as the brains to use them.

While men with work to do provide themselves with the most improved labor-saving devices the house still clings to the primitive dishpan and cooking range. This is because the kitchen has not been considered in the light of its true importance.

If the house mistress is to use her plant year after year she can afford to equip it with every modern invention. Tiled floors with rubber mats; glazed brick walls; water heated in the cellar and no coal fires on any living floor; gas and electric ovens, toasters, broilers and the like; hoods to draw off every odor; drying ovens for the dishes; electrically driven centrifugal dishwashers if you like—where, then, are the dirt and smell of the traditional kitchen?

Moreover, it must never be forgotten that a saving of one dollar a week on expenses pays the interest on a thousand dollars put into the permanent equipment of the house and that the kitchen is the place where the waste comes.

It is not simply that the cook feeds her friends, throws good food into the waste bucket, lets her supplies spoil on her hands, and prefers to order new materials rather than to devise means of utilizing old. The sources of loss go deeper than this; no outsider can understand the likings of the various members of a family in the way that a house mother understands them, or can satisfy them at so low an expense.

It is the cheap food, too, that most buy steaks and broilers which we needs to be mixed with brains. We cannot afford, not because we like them better than other foods, so much as because they are the hardest to spoil by poor cooking.

My idea is not theory; I have worked it. I have tried keeping house with one maid who did the general work of the house, but touched no food except what she herself ate. I have tried also doing my own cooking and having two or three different women who did not live in the house come in for sewing, mending and cleaning. I have also tried most of the more traditional arrangements, including two maids at a time who agreed together, and two maids at a time who didn't. As a result my new house is designed on the theory that my servants do the routine things and I do the interesting ones.

Salmon and its Uses.

Few foods equal canned salmon in convenience of preparation. It comes to the housewife in pound or half-pound cans. It can be kept indefinitely when unopened and is quickly prepared in an emergency. The fact that it has been so thoroughly cooked in canning removes any necessity for additional cooking before serving except for the purpose of warming or cooking the other ingredients which may be added in special dishes. Compared with the preparation of fresh meats or fish, a considerable saving in time, fuel and energy is effected. The body-building elements of pink or chum salmon are especially important for growing boys and girls. "For children over six, it is the cheapest and most nutritious animal food that can be had," states Dr. Harvey W. Wiley. These varieties being the least oily have a special value as summer foods and for people who wish to avoid fat producing elements.

The greatest difficulty in the way of punishing those who brew at home will be to find somebody to throw the first stone.

GLENDALE'S WELCOME TO VISITING ELKS

No town in Southern California feels a warmer interest in the Elks' convention being held this week in Los Angeles, or in the visiting Elks who will come to attend it than Glendale. The best proof of its interest is its local lodge —1700 strong—and its beautiful Elks' clubhouse. The outward and visible sign of its welcome is manifested in the purple and white streamers that decorate our principal thoroughfare and the flags a-flying, but there is an inward grace of welcome which we are sure the delegates will sense when they visit our city and see the many evidences of its good feeling and hospitlaity.

The steady growth of B. P. O. E. 1289 and its financial prosperity which will soon make possible a needed enlargement of the clubhouse is, in itself, a proof of Glendale's approval of this organization and the things for which it stands, its patriotism, always in evidence, and its acts of benevolence unobtrusively performed, which bring joy and comfort to many a sad heart in our community.

Glendale knows by experience that its Elks' lodge can always be depended upon to generously support every good cause and welfare movement, and so it is ready, with sincerity and enthusiasm, to extend the hand of good fellowship to every Elk and assure him that it welcomes him as a visitor or as a resident; that he represents the sort of men we like to have with us.

WHY THE AMERICAN LEGION?

The Nation, a New York publication, sends to The Press an advance notice of an article which is to appear in a coming issue of the Nation entitled, "The Truth About the American Legion." The advance notice is sent to newspapers over the country with the hope that publicity will be given the article and sales of the periodical thus stimulated. The Press is going to comply with the wishes of the publishers of the Nation and give space to the notice. Says the advance notice, in part: "Serious charges of extra-legal political activity and acts of violence are lodged against the American Legion," and, continuing, "these various charges are substantiated by instances and documents, and form a comprehensive survey of the work of the Legion."

> By the Constitution of the United States three branches of government were established: the legislative, the executive, and the judicial. In the last two years a fourth has been set up—the American Legion. Organized ostensibly to continue the friendships that developed in the fighting forces and to advance the legitimate interests of former service men, the Legion has grown away from that into a super-government. It gives orders to public officers and is fearfully consulted by them; it is accorded quasi-official standing through the privilege of occupying government buildings, * * * it has established a censorship of public meetings and, by actual or threatened violence, suppresses freedom of speech; it is attempting to dictate the instruction in our public schools and pass upon the qualifications of the teachers; although nominally non-political, it has actually sponsored a host of bigoted and repressive laws and policies, impeding the return of the rest of the community to a more normal existence.

The surprising thing about the above quotation is that, in the main, the charges are true. The American Legion is, in a way, a "super-government;" it is the symbol of loyalty and patriotism which is to be found in the hearts of millions of true American citizens and "it gives orders to public officials and is fearfully consulted by them," just as the voice of the people makes demands upon their representatives and as representatives seek to obey the wishes of their constituencies.

The American Legion is made up of men who offered their lives, if need be, for their country. Most of them went away to fight on the battlefields of Europe, and when they came home they found enemies of their country here as well as across the water. Though the American Legion may have been set up to continue the friendship of the service men, the spirit which prompted them to battle the foes of democracy abroad did not wither and perish as soon as they put their feet on native soil. They responded to the demands in their own land as readily as they did on foreign soil. They realized the need of a rekindled fire of loyalty in America and they have not neglected their duty.

Camouflaged by pleadings for free speech, they have seen enemies of the United States government at work seeking to undermine the foundations of those cardinal virtues in citizenship which make possible the perpetuation of the Constitution. True indeed are the charges that the American Legion is "attempting to dictate the instruction in our public schools and pass upon the qualifications of the teachers." The only regret is that a decade ago there was not an American Legion to give attention to this all-important work, to foresee the dangers of permitting a vast population of people reaching maturity and passing out of our schools with little or no knowledge of the meaning of Americanism and many of them unable to speak the American language.

The time will come when the American Legion may give up a part of its present work, when there will be no need for carrying on the gospel of Americanism. The time will come when the number of people who do not realize that America is for Americans will be so small that the Legion may confine its efforts to purely social activities, but the very fact that there are groups of citizens and organized societies fighting the American Legion today is proof that there is a demand for the continuance of its work along patriotic lines. Curiously enough, the Nation, by its attack on the American Legion, is offering justification for the work of Americanization now being carried on by the American Legion posts throughout the United States.

"Glimpsing the Beyond," says a newspaper title. Getting a focus on the present is what the country needs right now.

One sometimes detects a wistful sound in the judge's voice when he asks an intoxicated individual where he got it.

Theda Bara has married. As the cigar-store observer remarks, "She has no future, but, oh, what a past."

GRAVE AND GAY

They're Quite Alike

A rather successful Hoosier schoolma'am has for one of her ambitions never to look her profession so that people can guess it when they see her. So whenever she goes on a vacation she poses as a stenographer, a clerk or a member of some other profession than her own. When she left at Easter time she said that this time she "was going to be a widow for a week."

She succeeded in carrying off her pose successfully, too, until the day before she started home. Then on that day she overheard the colored elevator boy talking to a man she had met. "So she am a widow?" he said.

"Yes," the man nodded his head.

"I ain't surprised," the boy retorted with conviction. "I said that the day she come. I say that woman's either a widow or a school teacher. Both of 'em always have such a pert, 'I have bossed the world' way."

You Can't Beat 'Em

An Irishman came into the office of the president of the Illinois Central Railroad and said:

"Me name's Casey. Oi worruk out in the yar-rds. Oi'd loik a pass to St. Louis."

"That is no way to ask for a pass," said the president. "You should introduce yourself politely. Come back in an hour and try it again."

At the end of the day back came the Irishman. Doffing his hat, he inquired, "Are yez the man I saw before?"

"I am."

"Me name is Patrick Casey. Oi've been workin' out in the yar-rds."

"Glad to know you, Mr. Casey. What can I do for you?"

"Oi've got a job an' a pass to St. Louis on th' Wabash. Yez can go to hell."

A Fated Destiny

"Augh—Waugh—gr-r-r!"

It was the baby, and he had made similar remarks steadily for the last hour. Mr. Newpop's hair—what was left of it—stood on end.

"Gnow ahwb Wombgou filgaur-r-r," remarked the baby, lustily, while the people living across the way rose from their beds and closed the windows ostentatiously.

Mr. Newpop ground his teeth.

"To think," he murmured wearily, "that I should have lived to become the father of a train announcer!"

Kindness

The other evening a young lawyer took his bulldog in his machine when he took his best girl out driving. And as he drove up to her house out jumped his dog and clinched with the dog of the man who lived next door to her home. Then the fight began and it lasted long and was hard. But finally the two dogs were parted and the girl stood fearfully awaiting the "balling out" she was sure her crusty neighbor would give her best beau. But he did nothing of the sort. He kicked his own dog back into the house and talked affably with the lawyer.

The lawyer, too, was surprised. He voiced his wonder. "Well, you certainly are a good scout," he said. "Most men would have been mad over my dog fighting yours."

"No, sir, I'm a good neighbor," the old man said, and the girl began to feel more kindly toward him than she had ever felt before. But the next minute her kind feeling departed. For he finished: "I wouldn't do a mean trick to any of my neighbors like discouraging their daughter's beaus. I've got two old maid daughters myself just a few years older than the two who live here."

The New Temptation

"How do you manage to sell so many fireless cookers?"

"It's due to my method of approach," said the smart salesman. begin my little talk by saying: 'Madam, I have called to enable you to spend every afternoon at the movies.'"

Incidental Discussion

"Hiram," said Mrs. Corntossel, "you don't take as much interest in politics as you did last summer."

"Yes, I do," replied her husband, "but the new hire man is such a fine talker I'm afraid to say anything that might start him for fear he'll demand the salary of a lecturer."

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

Norma and Constance Talmadge have begun an extraordinarily Happy and Prosperous New Year, because 1921 found them in possession of a contract to continue under the Associated First National banner for another three years, under terms so remarkable that it is said to be the largest individual transaction in all film history to date. With a deal involving twenty million dollars, Mr. Joseph Schenck can naturally afford to give his stars bigger and better features than ever before, and has already bought no less than eight successful Broadway productions, paying anywhere between forty and seventy-five thousand dollars each for the picture rights alone. One of these is Jacinto Benavente's "The Passion Flower," in which Nance O'Neil starred on Broadway last season. This has been produced with Norma Talmadge as the star, under the direction of Herbert Brenon.

When asked about her plans for the future, Norma said she wanted to play strong, dramatic, emotional roles, which have in them something more than just the opportunity to act, and which besides being true character portrayals, would at the same time be helpful.

"I have turned down a number of good stories," she said. "because I am not satisfied to have people see in my pictures entertainment only. I want them to always feel an underlying psychology in what I do, and I like a story with a purpose, a story that gets somewhere, a story with some sort of new idea, or an old ideal. I don't mean to make propaganda pictures or to tack an obvious moral on everything I do, but I believe the moral can be brought out subtly and be so cleverly interwoven in the story that it becomes the very soul of the character and play."

"What is this, anyhow—a picture of a Home for the Aged?" asked Constance Binney, when she first went to the Long Island Studio after the Christmas holidays, to begin work on her new picture, "The Magic Cup." Miss Binney's question was well founded, for assembled in the cast were no less than four male actors whose stage experience dated back more than twenty years, while several others had twelve or fifteen years of public work to their credit.

Blanche Craig has more than fifteen years of stage work behind her, and eight years of screen acting on top of that; J. H. Gilmour started his stage career over twenty years ago with Adelaide Nielson in stock in Montreal; Charles Mussett, with thirty years of experience, confesses that he started in London in "Monte Cristo;" William H. Strauss first adorned vaudeville twenty-six years ago, graduated into stock, and entered pictures only last year; Malcolm Bradley, the real patriarch of the crowd, owned up to sixty-nine years, over fifty of them having been spent on the stage.

Against this background of age and experience, the youthful charm and naturalness of Constance Binney's art shine brightly. It was noticeable at the studio during the filming of "The Magic Cup," that all these veterans of the stage were thorough converts to the newer art of the cinema, and in no wise disgruntled at appearing in support of a twenty-year-old star.

Success Ahead for Ogle

Cecil B. deMille's brother, William deMille also has a winner in his latest picture, "After the Show," filmed under the title of "The Stage Door." Charles Ogle, the well known character actor, is the winner, and although Jack Holt and Lila Lee have the principal roles it is more than likely that he will "run away with the show." "Ogle's protrayal of the character assigned to him in the picturization of Rita Weiman's famous story, will rank as high on the screen as David Warfield's portrayal of the character of the music master in the play of the same title does on the stage." William deMille is quoted as saying.

Viewed from almost any angle "After the Show" promises to be one of the big film hits of 1921. Ogle's role is that of an old stage manager and he has a love for the heroine (Lila Lee) that is of the parental, protective sort. Lila (in the picture) has two other lovers and the trio keep her busy. Other Lasky execstage" William deMille is quoted that Ogle's portrayal of a very difficult character will cause the limelight of popularity to shine upon him with greater force than ever before.

Theodore Roberts Scores

And Ogle's coming success is a reminder that Theodore Roberts, dean of the Lasky lot and one of the best character actors on screen or stage, has been guilty of "running away" with a picture in which the popular Wallace Reid is the star. The title of the picture is "Too Much Speed", and throughout its exciting length Roberts holds first place in the spotlight and in the estimation of the fans. This does not mean that Wallace doesn't register as well as usual, for he does, but Roberts' role could not have been a better fit if it had been specially written for him.

The honeymoon is over when she goes about the house during the morning hours with her shoes unlaced.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get slugish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon joice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acid in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Harding's Staff of Leading Diplomats at Principal Posts

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 11.—With the appointment of Charles B. Warren, of Michigan, as Ambassador to Japan, President Harding has put the bulk of his foreign appointments behind him, and the conduct of American affairs abroad for the next few momentous years at least has been shifted to shoulders other than his.

It was a great relief for President Harding to get the Tokio post filled. It was generally regarded as the most important appointment the President would have to make in the diplomatic corps, because of the delicacy of Japanese-American relations and the great number of problems of an irritating nature which the new Ambassador to Japan will be called upon to face. It is no secret in Washington that the President worried not a little over filling the Tokio post.

Up to today the Harding administration has made seven major diplomatic appointments since it came into office four months ago. It is interesting to look at them en bloc. Two editors, two college presidents, one lawyer and two lawyer-business men comprise the chief figures of the Harding diplomatic force. They are:

Great Britain—Colonel George McClellan Harvey, of New York, editor.

France—Myron T. Herrick, of Chio, lawyer-business man.

Japan—Charles B. Warren, of Michigan, lawyer.

Italy—Richard Washburn Child, of Massachusetts, editor.

China—Jacob Gould Schurman, of New York, college president.

Chile—William Miller Collier, of Washington, college president.

Spain—Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, lawyer-business man.

Outside of the countries with which the United States is still at war, or with which its relations are only partially existent, there remain only a few Ambassadorial appointments to be made, although there are a number in the legation class.

Belgium is yet to be filled. Brand Whitlock, beloved by the Belgians, is reported to be very anxious to return home at the earliest opportunity, and it is probable that his wishes will be complied with by President Harding, although there is reason to believe that the President would be entirely willing to leave his popular fellow Ohioan in Brussels if he would stay.

Argentina, where Frederic Jessup Stimson holds forth; Brazil, where Edwin V. Morgan remains over from the old administration, and Peru, now occupied by William E. Gonzales, are among the more important posts which the President has yet to fill. American affairs in none of these are pressing, however, and the administration probably will take its time in replacing those now there.

Despite the never decreasing clamor for appointments, President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes have no intention of replacing a number of American ministers now abroad, according to those familar with the appointment situation. This applies particularly to those younger members of the American diplomatic set who have "come up from the ranks and won their spurs through long and arduous work in minor capacities in the service—men like William Phillips, former Assistant Secretary of State and now American Minister to the Netherlands; Joseph C. Grew, who used to be First Secretary at Berlin in Gerard's hectic days there, now at Copenhagen; Hugh Gibson, at Warsaw; Peter Augustus Jay, at Bucharest, and others.

All of these Ministers are comparatively young men, although considerably experienced, and the President and Secretary Hughes are inclined to the policy that if a real American diplomatic corps is to be set up, the men who have won their places on merit must be let alone and not subjected to the winds of political chance every four years. Some of them may be shifted about, but there is no intention at present of demoting them in rank nor of dispensing with their services.

Some Dog

Some dog! Hark to the talc. Description: tan and white, big paws, long tail and snout, red whiskers and extremely vicious in appearance.

This morning Arthur J. Van Wie, recent candidate for the office of city clerk, appeared at police headquarters with the wierd animal described above trailing reluctantly at the end of a yard of clothes line, and wanted to know whether it would be necessary for him to take out a license for the beast or not. Desk sergeant ruled that a license was necessary.

But still Mr. Van Wie argued. He didn't know whether his wife would let him keep the dog and asked to be allowed to take out a temporary license pending an opportunity to give the animal a trial. This matter is still under consideration.

Mr. Van Wie claims the dog is an African milk hound, that it is an excellent hunter and that it recently won a barbed wire collar at a fancy dog show.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES SUNDAY WELL ATTENDED

Pastor Edmonds Preaches on Theme "Light Up," Suggested by Parable

At the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached from a sentence in the parable about the "Ten Virgins and their Lamps:" "And five were foolish," or, literally, "stupid." (Matt. 25: 2.)

In certain parts of China, when one becomes a Christian, he is no longer expected to pay the heathen temple tax, but he has to prove that he is a Christian. How would it work in this country? The churches would be thronged with those coming to prove exemption. A young man in New York said to his wife, "I have today decided to be a Christian. Tonight we will have in the servants, and I will announce it." "But we are to have guests; go into the kitchen." "No, I have decided to give my best; the servants shall come in, and friends and all." So he did. This man was afterward Judge McLean, for forty years an honor to the bench. He was true to his profession of Christ before everything. There is need everywhere now that men should stand out in the open.

In this parable about the ten virgins, these five were called stupid. Why, and not the other five? They all seemed exactly alike. Yet there was a tremendously important difference. And crisis came and divided them. When the test comes, it automatically divides. When the midnight call of the bridegroom came, the five foolish ones had no oil in their lamps. God has placed you in this world to be a lamp-stand. Having a lamp, carries responsibility. Do you tell me you have a light, and don't use it for your dying brother?

There are three reasons why you should light up. First, for your own interest. People sometimes say they feel that they should come into the church for its good. But you should do it for your own good. Men are looking out for their advantage in the business world, step by step by step to the top. You should do likewise in the things of the soul. Oh, let your light shine,—light up!

Second, for the good of others. Influence is the most sacred thing you possess. "Am I my brother's keeper?" You most certainly are! You don't have to exert influence, it works automatically; you can't get away from it. It doesn't ask to be exerted.

Third, you ought to light up for God, because it is only fair to Christ. You owe it to Him. Some of these days you want Him to stand up for you on the judgment. "If you don't confess Me down here, what do you expect I am going to do with you up there?"

Now, why don't the five wise ones share the oil they have? Those who have salvation can't give part of it. All they can do is to tell where to get it. Salvation canot be divided out, every one must get his own; possess it yourself or go without.

"At midnight a cry went up." The bridegroom came, the ready ones went in, and the door was shut. You can't get the oil at midnight. At that moment is not when anything can be done. This is the day to get right with God. Do you not realize today that you are a weak nearer the end,—there is one week less time? If He should come this day, may it be given to you to go out and meet the Bridegroom,—may it not be said of you, "Five were foolish."

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

(By International News Service)

LONDON, July 11.—It is persistently reported in Athens that the Greek offensive against the Turks in Anatolia is extending, says an Athens dispatch to the Daily Telegraph. Greek officials refuse to confirm that a general movement against the Turks is under way.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—And the heat wave hangs on. E. H. Bowie, forecaster of the United States weather bureau, stated today that "no important changes in temperature are indicated for the Eastern half of the country during the next 36 hours. Local storms in various parts of the country may afford relief, however.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Ex-President William Howard Taft became the chief justice of the United States here today, taking the oath of office at a small ceremony, devoid of formality, in the office of Attorney General Daugherty.

LONDON, July 11.—Rioting has broken out among the 20,000 striking shipworkers at Kobe, says a Central News dispatch from Tokio today. The strikers held processions and carried red flags.

BELFAST, July 11.—After a temporary lull, rioting again broke out here just before noon today. Six persons were wounded and taken to hospitals.

A revised casualty list this afternoon put the dead at 16. Forty-two homes owned by Catholics were destroyed. The disorders developed into a three-cornered battle between Orangemen, Sinn Feiners and police, and there was heavy firing throughout Sunday and Sunday night in the city and suburbs.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—An appeal to the United States by the Far Eastern Republic to compel Japan to withdraw her troops from Siberia "at the earliest possible date," is contained in a note handed to the American minister in Pekin, the text of which reached here today. Similar notes were addressed to Great Britain and China.

CORK, July 11.—There was a flare-up of violence in the Cork district just before the armistice became effective. Four British soldiers who had been kidnapped yesterday were found dead today on the outskirts of the town. A retired British major was taken from his bed and shot to death.

SPECIAL MUSIC AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Noteworthy to music lovers was the evening service at the First Congregational Church where the following program was given by members of the choir which is directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker and which includes some very fine singers. They were assisted on this occasion by W. R. McClintock, and Miss Payne, violinist, the full program being:

Anthem—"The King of Love My Shepherd Is" (Shelley); Baritone solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd," (Marston), W. R. McClintock; violin solo—Miss Frances Payne; Ladies' quartet—"The Prayer Perfect,' (Stenson); Contralto solo, "O Divine Redeemer," (Gounod), Mrs. C. A. Parker. Male quartet—"We Stand Before the King," (Nevin).

The sermon theme was from the story of creation in Genesis—"God Also Made the Stars."

It was a sermon for the encouragement of those who feel their weaknesses and limitations—who are like stars dwindling into seeming insignificance in the effulgence of sun and moon. He dwelt upon the barrenness of the heavens without the stars and their importance from the very fact of their having been made by God who has created nothing that is unimportant. He quoted the recent findings of scientists concerning certain dim stars estimated to be large enough to contain within their sphere our whole solar system, thus proving that appearances from our viewpoint are no test of relative importance in the universe. The moral was obvious. While humility is an excellent virtue, he argued that every soul should maintain its self respect in the knowledge that it is God's child and therefore must have a place in the scheme of things that counts in the sight of the Father even though it is inconscpicuous in the sight of men.

SIX FATALITIES IN AEROPLANE SMASH

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., July 11.—One death during the night brought the fatalities today to six, resulting from the crash of a government-owned Martin bombing plane into a row of parked automobiles here. Sunday. A coroner's investigation of the accident, one of the most serious in American aeronautics was to be started today. Lieutenant C. R. MacIver, the pilot was slightly burned by the flames. MacIver had risen about 30 feet when the plane swung sharply to the left and seemed about to strike a hangar and an apparent effort was made to throw the plane into the Ohio river, on MacIver's left, but the plane was flying too low and crashed into a number of automobiles parked along the bank. But forty feet from where the plane came to a halt was a shed containing 2600 pounds of dynamite. Sixteen machines were burned. The dead were trapped in automobiles. The airmen were rescued from their wrecked machine.

PRESIDENT'S PLANS FOR DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE IS WELL LIKED

(By International News Service)

LONDON, July 11.—President Harding's proposal for a disarmament conference to be held in Washington, has been cordially received in Great Britian and the prediction was made in responsible quarters today that Great Britain will accpt.

The American ambassador, George Harvey, held a 40-minute conference this morning with Marquis Curzon, the foreign secretary. The subject of their conversation was not revealed blt it was assumed it referred to President Harding's offer.

Premier Lloyd George was understood to have been occupied most of the morning drafting a speech accepting President Harding's proposal. It was expected that the premier would make known his acceptance in his promised speech in the house of commons this afternoon on the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

Addressed as it is to all the greatest states in the world, it is practically an appeal to the human race to have done with wars. Though it mentions the Pacific and Far Eastern problems, it goes far beyond.

"Great Britain will respond gladly to the call," declared the Daily Express.

Petty Thievery

Boys broke into the Cerritos Avenue School Sunday night, gaining an entrance by tearing screens off one of the back windows, and stole a quantity of school supplies, including tools, from the manual training room, pencils, and office materials. According to the record at police headquarters, filed this morning by the janitor of the school, the thieves ramsacked the entire building, removing hinges from doors which were locked. No trace of the identity of the boys has been found.

C. A. Blix, of La Crescenta, reported to the local police late Saturday night that earlier in the evening while driving a Ford truck along South Verdugo road he was held up by two masked men who apparently came from the district about the oil wells. The bandits, he stated, jumped on the running board of his machine and forced him to turn over to them the money he had in his pockets which amounted to $15. An investigation was made by the Glendale police but no trace of the highwaymen was found.
